CURRENTLY ON VIEW

April 18 through July 12, 2009

Visions of Mood: Henry C. White Pastels

The pastel sketches of Lyme Art Colony artist Henry C. White glow with intense colors. A trove of these vibrant landscapes, still owned by the artist's descendants, are displayed publicly for the first time in this exhibition. The pastels provide insight into a new side of White's art-making, one in which he experimented with color and texture while working quickly outdoors. Catalogue available in the Museum Shop.

Sponsored by Bank of America with program support from the Connecticut Humanities Council

April 18 through July 12, 2009

The Artistic Circle of Henry C. White

A selection of paintings by White and the artists he revered and befriended provides a context for understanding his pastels in light of both Tonalism and Impressionism.

UPCOMING

July 18 through October 18, 2009

Lyme in Mind: Clement C. Moore Collection

This exhibition celebrates the promised gift of an extraordinary group of paintings to the Museum by trustee Clement C. Moore and features major works by the most notable members of the Lyme Art Colony, including Hassam, Chadwick, DuMond, Greacen, Hoffman, Metcalf, and Ranger. Many works have not been shown publicly.

July 24, 2009 through 2010

Patrick Dougherty's "Stickwork"
A Site-Specific Installation

Timed to coincide with the opening of the Rafal Landscape Center, North Carolina artist Patrick Dougherty creates a site-specific "stickwork" sculpture at the Museum. He constructs his installations using local saplings to "sketch" structures that respond to the environment and capture the essence of place.

Sponsored by People's Bank with program support from Connecticut Humanities Council

Artful Volunteer Opportunities

May - July 2009

Stick with the Florence Griswold Museum

Come Help Patrick Dougherty Create the Museum's Site-Specific "Stickwork" Starting June 29th!

Join North Carolina artist Patrick Dougherty on the grounds of the Museum and assist in the creation of one of his site-specific "stickwork" sculptures. Dougherty designs and then constructs his installations from locally-grown saplings working with volunteers in a variety of tasks. When completed, these remarkable sculptures respond to the environment around them. Work during the week from June 29th through mid-July. Contact the Museum to add your name to the list of volunteers at (860) 434-5542, ext. 114 or nicole@flogris.org.
